Enhancing sustainable food security. How can/does the Lithuanian-Japanese business partnership contribute to global food security?

The Lithuania-Japan Food Business Forum on Food Security will be held on the 4th of March 2024, introducing an inter-regional, business-centered platform for insightful discussions on the promotion of secure food supply chains. The event will feature compelling keynote speeches, a stimulating panel discussion, and a targeted b2b-matchmaking event, celebrating the exciting Japanese-Lithuanian sustainable economic partnership opportunities.

In an era marked by unprecedented global challenges, the intersection of food security, international collaboration, and sustainable business practices takes center stage. Furthermore, taking into account the divergent geopolitical realities different regions face, this dynamic conference offers a unique opportunity to contemplate and compare the opportunities and risks emanating from the current global food security crises in Asia and Europe.

The Lithuania-Japan Food Business Forum is set to analyze the multifaceted aspects of local and global food security issues. The upcoming panel discussion will specifically address the perceptions of sustainability in food security within Lithuania, the European Union, and Japan. What role do they see themselves playing in solving the global food security crisis? How do corporate stakeholders from Lithuania and Japan view sustainable food security?

Diverse experts, including policymakers and business leaders from both Lithuania and Japan, will converge to share their invaluable insights and visions.

The Lithuania-Japan Food Business Forum on Food Security invites participants to join hands in developing a roadmap towards a more secure, sustainable, and interconnected global food future.
